DETAILED ACTION

This action is responsive to application filed on August 11, 2010 in which Claims 1, 2, 4-10, 14-16, 18 are pending.

Status of Claims

Claims 1, 2, 4-10, 14-16, 18 are pending in the case. Claims 1, 14, 18 are independent Claims.

Claims 1, 2, 4-10, 14-16, 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed August 11, 2010 have been fully considered. See rejection for details. Applicant argued:

- 1) Applicant argues about the amended Claims. See rejection for details.
- 2) In response to applicant's argument that there is no teaching, suggestion, or motivation to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness may be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988), In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d

1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992), and KSR International Co. v. Teleflex, Inc., 550 U.S. 398, 82 USPQ2d 1385 (2007).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 2, 4-10, 14-16, 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable by Shalit et al., US 5,714,971 in view of Freeze, Internet Explorer 5, 1999.

Regarding Claim 1, Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of a system having a graphical user interface for navigating through content, the system comprising a display having: a history panel wherein navigation history data is displayed, and at least a first panel displaying a first menu of a content structure, the first menu comprising one or more selectable items in FIG. 2D, FIG. 8, wherein the ability of navigation through content structure is illustrated. (Shalit, FIG. 2D, Column 1, lines 49-51, Abstract, Column 9, lines 19-20, FIG. 8, Navigation history).

Shalit does not specifically teach the claimed aspect of the navigation history data provides a reference for at least one of a number of selections in accordance with a plurality of criteria, however Freeze discloses the claimed aspect in FIG. 3.5, wherein a navigation history panel is illustrated with plurality of criteria to display the selected items. (Freeze, Page 30).

It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to display navigation history by plurality of criteria Shalit's navigation history panel, because this would allow the user to filter certain items that the user needs.

Shalit does not specifically disclose the claimed aspect of there exists at least one route for navigating through said content to arrive at said at least the first panel, however Freeze discloses the claimed aspect in FIG. 3.5, wherein there are option such as Last Week, Monday, Tuesday, Today and user navigates from Today to content listing and the user selects a specific content from the listing. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to add this feature to Shalit's first panel because this would allow the user to view the information within same panel depending on user's preferences.

Regarding Claim 2, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of Claim 1. See the rejection of Claim 1 for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the system according to claim 1, further comprising at least a second panel for displaying a first sub-menu of a currently highlighted item of the first menu in FIG. 2D, wherein a second panel is illustrated.

Regarding Claim 4, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of Claims 2 or 3. See the rejection of Claims 2 or 3 for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the first menu in the first panel is replaced with the sub-menu of the second panel upon selection of an item in the first panel in FIG. 2D, wherein first panel has an item from the second panel, ARM Support.

Regarding Claim 5, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of Claim 4. See the rejection of Claim 4 for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the sub-menu in the second panel is replaced with a sub-menu of a currently highlighted item of the first sub-menu, in FIG. 2D, wherein ARM Support is selected in the first panel, and second panel display ARM Support with sub menu.

Regarding Claim 6, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of any preceding Claims. See the rejection of preceding Claims for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the navigation history data comprises a reference to previously selected menu(s) in FIG. 9E, wherein ARM Support and Level-1 is illustrated.

Regarding Claim 7, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of any preceding Claims. See the rejection of preceding Claims for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of navigation history data is displayed as pictograms in FIG. 9E, wherein icons are illustrated next to the items in the first panel.

Regarding Claim 8, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of any preceding Claims. See the rejection of preceding Claims for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of one or more layered panels show the navigation history in FIG. 9E, wherein navigation history is illustrated.

Regarding Claims 9 and 10, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of any preceding Claims. See the rejection of preceding Claims for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the content structure includes a main menu starting point, the navigation history data includes navigation history data starting from the main menu starting point in FIG. 9E, wherein Leibniz is the main menu.

Regarding Claim 14, the rejection for Claims 1-4 apply to Claim 14. See rejection details for Claims 1-4.

Regarding Claim 15, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of Claim 14. See the rejection of Claim 14 for details. The rejection for Claims 3 and 4 apply to Claim 15. See rejection details for Claims 3 and 4.

Regarding Claim 16, most of the limitations have been met in the rejection of Claim 15. See the rejection of Claim 15 for details. Shalit discloses the claimed aspect of the selection of an active element causes the navigation to revert to the selected data in the navigation history data in FIG. 9E, wherein Level-1 is selected.

Regarding Claim 18, the rejection of Claims 1 and 14 apply substantially to Claim 18. See rejection details for Claims 1 and 14.
